

SQUIRE'S NEW TOUGHLOK™ COMBI MAKES IT SIMPLE

Henry Squire & Sons Ltd has introduced its latest range of Toughlok™ recodable combination padlocks, purpose made for simplicity where one code opens all.

Squire's new Toughlok Combi™ padlocks for medium security protection are constructed with a zinc die cast body and solid steel shackle – with coded 'alike' available so one code opens several locks.

They operate using a fully recodable three or four-wheel dial (dependent on the body size) with 10 digits – from zero to nine – offering over 10,000 code combinations.

Designed for convenience, the dial wheels are cleverly spaced apart, making it easier for those who find smaller dials more difficult to operate – with the additional benefit of no keys to lose.

Recoding is straightforward too. It can be coded to set unique sequences for all or coded 'alike' to suit personal preferences.

Squire's Toughlok Combi™ is available in standard shackle only and comes in three different body sizes (20mm, 30mm and 40mm) making it ideal for a host of uses both indoor and outdoor – luggage, lockers, toolboxes, cupboards and small sheds.

Managing director of Henry Squire & Sons Ltd, John Squire says the new Toughlok Combi™ range is a modern and convenient choice for the security-conscious customer.

He said: “With so many codes and passwords to remember in everyday life, there has never been a better time for Squire to offer a less complex coding solution when it comes to setting a dedicated code for security.

“Toughlok Combi is manufactured with the customer in mind – it offers the ultimate in convenience and simplicity whilst delivering the best quality security solution.”

Highlighting Squire’s continual commitment to new and innovative products, the good looking Toughlok Combi range epitomises the company’s forward-thinking outlook, commitment to new technology and superior design capabilities.

Like all Squire security padlocks, the Toughlok Combi™ range carries the unique Squire personal 10-year guarantee.
